Legal recognition of electronic record

6. Information shall not be denied legal effect or validity solely on the ground that it is -

(a) in the form of an electronic record; or

(b) referred to but not contained in an electronic record.

7. (1) Where a document, record or information is required or permitted by any statutory provision or rule of law or by contract or deed to be in writing, or is described in any statutory provision or contract as being written, that requirement, permission or description may be met by information in the form of an electronic record. Writing

(2) Subsection (1) shall apply if the requirement for the document, record or information to be in writing is in the form of an obligation or if the statutory provision or rule of law or contract or deed provides consequences if it is not in writing.

8. (1) Where a document, record or information is required or permitted by any statutory provision or rule of law or by contract or deed to be delivered or sent to a person, that requirement or permission may be met by delivery of it in the form of an electronic record if - Delivery

- (a) the format of the electronic record and the means of delivery is acceptable to the parties; and
- (b) where the originator of the electronic record states that the receipt of the electronic record is to be acknowledged, the addressee has knowingly acknowledged the receipt.

(2) Subsection (1) applies whether or not the requirement for delivery or sending is in the form of an obligation or whether or not the statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed provides consequences for the document, record or information not being delivered or sent.

9. (1) (a) Where a statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed requires conclusive evidence of the original form of a document, record or information to be presented or retained, that requirement shall be met by the presentation or retention of an electronic record if the document, record or information is accurately represented therein. Original form

(b) Paragraph (a) shall apply if the requirement for the presentation or retention of evidence of the original form of document, record or information is in the form of an obligation or if the statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed provides consequences if conclusive evidence of the original form of document, record or information is not provided.

(2) (a) Where a statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed requires a document, record or information to be presented or retained in its original form and such document, record or information was first generated in its final form as an electronic record, that requirement shall be met by the presentation or retention of an electronic record if the document, record or information is accurately represented therein.

- (b) Paragraph (a) shall apply if the requirement to present or retain the document, record or information in its original form is in the form of an obligation or if the statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed provides consequences if the original form of the document, record or information is not presented or retained.

(3) For the purposes of subsections (1) and (2) the document, record or information is accurately represented where it has remained complete and unaltered from the time it was first generated in its final form, whether as an electronic record or on any other medium, apart from the application of an information security procedure, or apart from-

- (a) the addition of an endorsement; or
- (b) an immaterial change,

which arises in the normal course of communication, translation, conversion, storage or display.

Retention of records

10. (1) Where documents, records or information are required by any statutory provision or rule of law or by contract or by deed to be retained, that requirement is met by retaining them in the form of electronic records if -

- (a) the information contained in the electronic record is accessible and capable of retention for subsequent reference;

12. In proceedings in a court, tribunal or arbitration, whether of a legal, judicial, quasi-judicial or administrative nature, the admissibility of an electronic record or an electronic signature in evidence shall not be denied solely on the grounds that it is an electronic record or an electronic signature.

Admissibility of electronic records

Part III - Formation and Validity of Contracts

13. (1) In the context of the formation of a contract -

- (a) an offer;
- (b) subject to any condition included in the offer (notwithstanding section 4), the acceptance of an offer; and may be expressed by an electronic record.

Formation and validity of contracts

(2) As between the originator and the addressee of an electronic record, a declaration of intention or other statement shall not be denied legal effect or validity solely on the ground that it is in the form of an electronic record.

Part IV - Communication of Electronic Records

14. (1) An electronic record is that of an originator if it was sent by the originator himself.

Attribution of electronic records

(2) As between the originator and the addressee, an electronic record shall be attributable to the originator if it was sent -

- (a) by a person who had been authorised by the originator to send the electronic record on his behalf; or
- (b) by the originator's electronic agent.

(3) As between the originator and the addressee, an addressee shall be entitled to attribute an electronic record to the originator, and to act on that assumption, if -

- (a) in order to ascertain whether the electronic record was that of the originator, the addressee properly applied a procedure previously agreed to by the originator for that purpose; or

(b) the electronic record as received by the addressee resulted from the actions of a person whose relationship with the originator, or with any agent of the originator, enabled that person to gain access to a method used by the originator to identify electronic records as his own.

(4) Subsection (3) shall not apply -

(a) as of the time when the addressee has both received notice from the originator that the electronic record is not that of the originator, and had reasonable time to act accordingly; or

(b) in a case to which subsection (3)(b) applies, at any time when the addressee knew or should have known, had he exercised reasonable care or used any agreed procedure, that the electronic record was not that of the originator.

(5) The addressee shall be entitled to regard each electronic record received as a separate electronic record and to act on that assumption, except to the extent that it duplicates another electronic record and the addressee knew or should have known, had he exercised reasonable care or used any agreed procedure, that the electronic record was a duplicate.

Effect of change or error

15. If a change or error occurs in the transmission of an electronic record -

(a) if the originator and the addressee have agreed to use an information security procedure in respect of the electronic record and one of them has conformed to the procedure, but the other has not, and the nonconforming person would have detected the change or error had he also conformed, the conforming person may avoid the effect of the changed or erroneous electronic record;

(b) if an individual is either the originator or the addressee of an electronic record, he may avoid the effect of the electronic record if the error was made by the individual in dealing with the electronic agent of another person if the electronic agent did not provide an opportunity for the prevention or correction of the error and, at the time the individual learns of the error, the individual-

(i) promptly notifies the other person of the error and that he did not intend to be bound by the electronic record received by the other person;

(ii) takes reasonable steps, including steps that conform to the other person's reasonable instructions, to return to the other person or, if instructed by the other person, to destroy the

- consideration received, if any, as a result of the erroneous electronic record; and
- (iii) has not used or received any benefit or value from the consideration, if any, received from the other person; and
- (c) if neither paragraph (a) nor paragraph (b) applies, the change or error shall have the effect provided by any other law and any contract between the originator and the addressee.

16. (1) Subsections (2), (3) and (4) shall apply where, on or before sending an electronic record, or by means of that electronic record, the originator has requested, or agreed with, the addressee that receipt of the electronic record be acknowledged by the addressee.

Acknowledgement of receipt of electronic records

(2) Where the originator has not agreed with the addressee that the acknowledgement be given in a particular form or by a particular method, an acknowledgement may be given by -

- (a) a communication by the addressee to the originator, automated or otherwise; or
- (b) conduct of the addressee, that is reasonably sufficient to indicate to the originator that the electronic record has been received.

(3) Where the originator has stated that an electronic record is conditional on receipt by him of an acknowledgement, the electronic record shall be presumed not to have been sent until an acknowledgment has been received by him.

(4) Where the originator has not stated that the electronic record is conditional on receipt of the acknowledgement and the acknowledgement has not been received by the originator within the time specified or agreed or, if no time has been specified or agreed, within a reasonable time, the originator -

- (a) may give notice to the addressee -
  - (i) stating that no acknowledgement has been received and that the electronic record is to be treated as though it had never been sent; or
  - (ii) specifying a reasonable time by which the acknowledgement must be received; and
- (b) if the acknowledgement is not received within the time specified in paragraph (a), may, upon notice to the addressee -
  - (i) treat the electronic record as though it had never been sent; and
  - (ii) exercise any other rights the originator may have.

(5) Where the originator receives the addressee's acknowledgement of receipt it may be presumed that the related electronic record has been received by the addressee but that presumption shall not imply that the electronic record received corresponds to the electronic record as sent.

(6) Where the addressee's received acknowledgment states that the related electronic record met technical requirements that the originator and the addressee have agreed should be met, it shall be presumed that the requirements have been met.

(7) Except in so far as it relates to the sending or receipt of an electronic record, this section shall not affect the legal or equitable consequences that may flow either from that electronic record or from the acknowledgement of its receipt.

Time and place of sending and receipt of electronic records

17. (1) An electronic record which is transmitted by electronic means is sent at the time when it enters an information processing system outside the control of the originator, his agent, his electronic agent, or his agent's electronic agent.

(2) An electronic record which is transmitted by electronic means is received -

(a) in the case where the addressee has designated an information processing system for the purpose of receiving an electronic record -

(i) at the time when the electronic record enters the designated information processing system; or

(ii) if the electronic record is sent to an information processing system of the addressee that is not the designated information processing system, at the time when the electronic record is retrieved by the addressee; or

(b) in the case where the addressee has not designated an information processing system, at the time when the electronic record enters an information processing system of the addressee or is otherwise retrieved by the addressee.

(3) Subsection (2) shall apply notwithstanding that the place where the information processing system is located may be different from the place where the electronic record is deemed to be received under subsection (4).

(4) Subject to subsection (6) an electronic record shall be deemed to have been sent at the place where the originator or his agent has his place of business, and shall be deemed to have been received at the place where the addressee or his agent has his place of business.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4) if the originator or the addressee has more than one place of business, his place of business is -

- (a) that place of business which has the closest relationship to the transaction to which the electronic record relates; or
- (b) where there is no transaction to which the electronic record relates -
  - (i) if he is a body corporate or a registered partnership, his registered office; or
  - (ii) in any other case, his principal place of business.

(6) Where the originator or the addressee of an electronic record does not have a place of business, or the electronic record does not relate to the originator's business, the electronic record shall be deemed to have been sent or received -

- (b) in any other case, at the place where he ordinarily resides.

Part V - Electronic Signatures

Equal treatment of signatures

- (a) satisfies the requirements of section 19(1); or
- (b) otherwise meets the requirements of an applicable statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed.

19. (1) Where the signature of a person is required by a statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed, that requirement shall be met in relation to an electronic record if an electronic signature is used that is as reliable as was appropriate for the purpose for which the electronic record was generated or communicated, in all the circumstances, including any relevant agreements.

Compliance with a requirement for a signature

(2) Subsection (1) applies whether the requirement for a signature is in the form of an obligation or the statutory provision, rule of law, contract or deed provides consequences for the absence of a signature.

(3) An electronic signature shall be reliable for the purpose of satisfying the requirement referred to in paragraph (1) if -

- (a) the means of creating the electronic signature is, within the context in which it is used, linked to the signatory and to no other person;
- (b) the means of creating the electronic signature was, at the time of signing, under the control of the signatory and of no other person;
- (c) any alteration to the electronic signature, made after the time of signing, is detectable; and
- (d) where a purpose of the legal requirement for a signature is to provide assurance as to the integrity of the information to which it relates, any alteration made to that information after the time of signing is detectable.

(4) Sub-section (3) does not limit the ability of any person -

- (a) to establish in any other way, for the purpose of satisfying the requirement referred to in sub-section (1), the reliability of an electronic signature; or
- (b) to adduce evidence of the non-reliability of an electronic signature.

Determination of standards

20. The Governor in Council may make regulations prescribing methods which satisfy the requirements of Section 19.

Conduct of a person relying on an electronic signature

21. A person relying on an electronic signature shall bear the legal consequences of his failure to -

Recognition of foreign certificates and electronic signatures

22. (1) In determining whether, or the extent to which, a certificate or an electronic signature is legally effective, no regard shall be had to the place where the certificate or the electronic signature was issued, nor to the jurisdiction in which the issuer had its place of business.

(2) If the Minister considers that the practices of a foreign information security service provider provide a level of reliability at least equivalent to that required of information security service providers in order that they may be approved under section 25, he may by notice published in the Gazette recognise certificates or classes of certificates issued by the foreign provider as legally equivalent to certificates issued by information security service providers approved under section 25.

(3) The Minister may, by notice published in the Gazette, recognise signatures complying with the laws of a foreign jurisdiction relating to electronic signatures as legally equivalent to signatures issued by information security service providers approved under section 25 if the laws of the other foreign jurisdiction require a level of reliability at least equivalent to that required for such signatures under this Law.

(4) The Governor in Council may make regulations prescribing the matters to be taken into account by the Minister when deciding whether to exercise his powers under subsections (2) and (3).

(5) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (3), parties to commercial and other transactions may specify that a particular information security service provider, class of information security service providers or class of certificates shall be used in connection with messages or signatures submitted to them.

(6) Where, notwithstanding subsections (2) and (3), the parties to a transaction agree to the use of particular types of electronic signatures and certificates, that agreement shall be recognised as sufficient for the purpose of cross-border recognition in respect of that transaction.

23. Where information or a signature, document or record is required by a statutory provision or rule of law, or by contract or deed to be notarised, acknowledged, verified, or made under oath, the requirement shall be satisfied if, in relation to an electronic signature, electronic document or electronic record, the electronic signature of the person authorised to perform those acts, together with all other information required to be included by other applicable law, is attached to or logically associated with the electronic signature, electronic document or electronic record.

Notarisation and acknowledgment
