Subject: Public Consultation on Costing Manual - CD 2005-1 - ICTA interrogatories to C&W - Public Version
Importance: High
Attachments: Appendix X_Fixed Case Study_revised__public_07_03_02.pdf

Dear all:

Further to Mr. Dave Archbold's email, please find attached a revised public version of Appendix X. To make the extracts more legible, they were enlarged and placed at the end of the document in landscape format (appropriate corresponding references are added to the body of the text as well where necessary). We made no other change to Appendix X.

Please note that Fixed Model Case Study filed as Appendix X on 23 February 2007 is the same Fixed Model Case Study originally filed in March 2006 but with numbers in the text amended to correspond to the confidential model as was requested in Interrogatory 3.12.2. Although from the confidential model, C&W did not believe the numbers in the text would be prejudicial, so included them in the Case Study circulated to all interested parties. However, screen shots of the confidential model results would have been prejudicial and therefore we retained the screen shots as they appeared in the original March 2006 filing. The numbers in the text and the numbers in the screen shots are therefore not necessarily consistent.

We are now supplying the Authority, by separate email, a confidential version of the Case Study which has screen shots from the confidential model with numbers that are consistent with the numbers in the text.

Please print or zoom in for most effective viewing.

Please confirm receipt by return email.

Kevin,

Cable & Wireless made an unfortunate mistake that any one of us could have made, and probably will make at some time in the future (your "Dear Mr Davidson" and "no Mr Davidson" might be two small examples). Despite any unfortunate waste of time involved, a simple confirmation that you had taken the requested action would have been much more appropriate. Not only would this have been in keeping with the cooperative (but competitive) relationship that exists between Cayman licensees, but it would have stood you in much better stead if (when?) Digicel makes a similar slip in future.

I believe it is in everyone's best interests for this particular discussion to terminate at this point, so I am exercising the regulator's prerogative to have the last word. It would be helpful, however, if C&W could distribute a more legible version of Appendix 10 - I too find some of the Extracts very difficult to read.

Regards,

Dave Archbold

Dear Mr. Davidson,

Thank you for your belated unhelpful reply. Notwithstanding that you chose not to address my query I can confirm that I have deleted the original email.

However with respect to the latest Zipped version, Digicel hereby requests an unspoiled copy of file "Appendix X_fixed_Case Study_2.pdf". None of the Extracts, aspects of which are directly referred to in the text, are legible whether read on screen or printed. Given the importance time and expense associated with this process it is essential that we have decent quality legible documents in order that we can fully understand and contribute to the process.

I look forward to your prompt reply on this matter.

Yours sincerely,
Kevin Barrins

Dear Miss Genoa,

With respect, this is a very scant explanation 3 days after the original mail. I would be most grateful if you could identify precisely which documents 'redaction errors' occurred in - I am presuming you only mean one/more pdf files? Surely there are not redaction errors in all 14 attachments?

I had already begun working on excel files over the weekend which appeared okay - to delete these saved files unnecessarily now would be a considerable waste of mine and Digicel's time.

I look forward to your prompt reply on this matter. For propriety I have copied all parties on this matter.

Regards,
Kevin Barrins

Dear All

The email referred to below sent to you on Friday afternoon inadvertently contained redaction errors.

Please immediately delete that email and the Zip file with its contents and any copies on your system. Please do not, disclose, distribute, print, copy, forward, save, file or otherwise directly or indirectly make use of said email and its attachments.

We appreciate your understanding and a new set of documents is being prepared and will be sent to you shortly.

Please confirm to me by return email that you have deleted Friday's email and Zip file.

Kind regards,
