Alric also previously qualified as an attorney (not currently practicing), having been initially admitted to the Cayman Islands Bar to practice law in February 2005. He has previously advised on all aspects of investment funds, specialized in private equity and hedge fund formation. As a result, he has accumulated extensive experience in governance structures, established operations platforms, advised on regulatory matters and has knowledge of restructuring entities.

Alric has also worked as a senior compliance analyst with CIMA where he was responsible for regulatory queries from onshore regulators, administrators, investment managers and onshore lawyers regarding all aspects of the Mutual Funds Act.

Alric previously qualified as a certified public accountant, having passed the Uniform Certified Public Accounting Exam in 1998 and was employed by Coopers & Lybrand (now PricewaterhouseCoopers) in the Cayman Islands as an auditor. At Coopers & Lybrand, he was involved in audits of banks, insurance companies and other institutions.

Alric also passed the Canadian Securities Course (hons) in 2005.

Alric is a member of the Cayman Islands Directors Association and The Chartered Governance Institute (CGI) of Canada. He is also an alumnus of Stetson University in Florida and the University of Law in London.
